Description:

Long gone are the days when colorful clowns caused hilarity - at least since figures like "Curby" entered the stage. Curby is no joker - he is a Halloween nightmare come true, wreaking havoc in dark doorways and corners.

The decorative character is an animated hanging figure whose body dangles loosely downwards and ends in a fringed robe - instead of feet, the lower part blurs into a ghostly silhouette. His wide one-piece suit, a sort of harlequin suit, is covered with colored dots in different sizes, while the sleeves and collar scarf are in striking striped patterns. His face is painted lime white, with a bright red clown's nose and black-rimmed eyes topped with bright green arches, while his hair is bright orange. His white, bony hands are pointed forward as if he wants to grab his next victims. As soon as the animation starts, his LED eyes begin to flash ominously. In combination with creepy sayings and a malicious laugh, the whole body shakes as if it can hardly contain itself with joy at the approaching horror.

The Halloween figure's animation is activated by an integrated microphone or wired control. A loop attached to the head serves as a hanger.
