Description:

This long flowering houseplant, whose botanical name is "Anthurium andreanum", is also known as flamingo flower. With simple elegance, it convinces as an ideal table and counter decoration for your office and living rooms, as well as for restaurants and hotels.

The actual blossom (bulb) of the anthurium is located in the middle of tall leaves in white and pink, which have heart-shaped protrusions. These tower above the green leafy stand of the artificial plant and convince the viewer as a blooming eye-catcher. The decorative foliage is made of waterproof tarpaulin and shows the typical leaf embossing of the real plants. Aerial roots form the end of the plant towards the moss cover of the pot.

The flamingo flower is delivered in a plain decorative pot. Accordingly, it can be easily placed in your premises with a few simple steps and without much effort.
